

Special thanks to Fraunhofer Institute for hosting last night's reception.

Recap of Yesterday

1. Very high degree of interaction among attendees – networking is successful
2. Panels were really excellent – repeated comments that government panel was one of the best people have attended
3. Parallel sessions worked well – lots of engagement, suggestions, observations, ...
4. General agreement there are lots of hard problems in systems engineering – valuing flexibility, security, managing complexity, ...
5. General alignment between government and academic community on important areas to focus
